USER REVIEW

This is a sophisticated American-made product complete with multiple layers of filtration and a 12-foot wire-frame hose. It excels at collecting fine talclike dust that's produced from work such as sanding drywall. What it lacks in speed it makes up for in thoroughness, producing an essentially dust-free stream of exhaust air.

PRODUCT TESTERS NEEDED FOR R&D

Dustless Technologies prides itself on being innovative and creating solutions to dust-creating jobs in various industries.

To assist our aggressive Research & Development Department, product testers are needed to ensure the durability, versatility, and ease of use.

Those chosen will specify their line of work and abilities, which determines the products you're chosen to test.

In exchange for testing products, the tester simply needs to record how long the product is used, and fill out an online feedback form and will get to keep the product for FREE.

To be considered as a tester, please send an email to:

DUSTLESS TRAINING HITS THE ROAD

Here at Dustless, we love supporting our dealers and meeting with our end users! Our sales reps can attend customer appreciation events, such as this one pictured by GranQuartz in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Cross promoting the event across all social media channels ensures maximum coverage and impact. They are also available for staff training, ride alongs, and order assistance. Call us today for more information and to contact your local sales representative.

Megan Marshall, Field Sales and Training Consultant, used Facebook Live at the GranQuartz Customer Appreciation Event to demonstrate her new Makita grinder with the Dustless universal CutBuddie shroud, D1730.

IT'S NOT JUST BUSINESS

President & Co-Founder of Dustless Technologies & Loveless Ash Awarded by local chamber of commerce.

President and CEO of Loveless Ash Company and Dustless Technologies, Colleen Loveless received special recognition at the banquet for being named the chamber's outstanding board member of the year. A friendly face at many chamber events, ribbon cuttings and board meetings, Loveless is a reliable member of the board that brings an array of expertise to her position. She also serves on the board for Zion's Bank and Castlevew Hospital as well as finding time to serve as Relief Society President.

"This award has been given to Colleen for her outstanding service towards our chamber members, the chamber board members and its employees," the chamber shared.
